FIRST INFORMATION SESSIONS FOR NORTH WEST RAIL LINK

The first community information sessions on the North West Rail Link will be held in Rouse Hill, Castle Hill, Cherrybrook and Epping, Minister for Transport Gladys Berejiklian announced today.

“We said from the beginning that we were committed to going out into the community and the community information sessions will give residents a chance to speak directly to the project team behind the North West Rail Link,” Ms Berejiklian said.

“I encourage people with an interest in this project to attend one of the information sessions. This rail link will be a major community asset for generations to come and the needs of the customer will be at the forefront of our thinking.

“We opened the North West Rail Link Community Information Centre at Castle Hill just over a fortnight ago but I am also keen for the project team to speak to residents along the planned route to make sure everyone has a chance to have their say,” Ms Berejiklian said.
